Retreat Farm is a public common where everyone can connect to the land and one another. The Farm's fields, forests, waters, and all that they contain sustain and inspire us. Today, the historic farmstead serves as platform for community advancing events and programming. Our pastures, waters, paths, and historic farmstead are open to the public for you to enjoy every day for free.

Located on traditional Abenaki homelands, this 19th century farm was established to provide food and therapy in nature for patients at the nearby Brattleboro Retreat. The Retreat Trails wind through land stewarded by Retreat Farm and community volunteers.

Soak up the antics of our farm animals as they graze, connect with neighbors and friends, enjoy our many miles of relaxing and invigorating trails, take in the soothing waters of Wantastegok (Retreat Meadows), and find inspiration on our interpretive trails and through our art installations.
